

THE SHAKERITE

37th Year, No. 13

Shaker Heights High School, Shaker Heights, Ohio

April 21, 1967

Cast Create 'Perfect Play'

The A Cappella Choir presented their production of "Brigadoon" to full houses on April 14 and 15. Choir members filled all the roles and also did the dancing in the two-hour show. Many also worked on the technical crews.

MITCH DUBICK and Jim Epstein were the two Americans who wandered into the mystical village of Brigadoon, and there found love with Beverly Gans, who played Fiona, and Kathy Lackritz as Meg. Others who took leading roles were Steven Giamo, Charles Dalrymple, and Paula Rose as his bride.

The play was in rehearsal for almost 12 weeks. John Barner directed the dramatic portions of the show, while Reynold Ellis aided the singers. Debby Weisberger and Miss Karen Craig choreographed the dancing. Charles Domovich supervised the technical work.

PUBLICITY FOR the show was handled by Jill Kronheim and her committee. They placed gaily plaided posters around the school and city, and were in charge of PA announcements.

After the Saturday night performance, the choir and crew went to Fred Kidder's house for the traditional cast party and there saw a skit spoofing the production to let off tension.

Panel Evaluating Integration Merits School's Participation

In a recent editorial, The Shakerite attempted to examine the integration at Shaker. Since that time, a deeper and more thorough evaluation has begun among a group of interested students, which deserves the attention and participation of all Shakerites.

For the past few months a panel of 11 Negro and white students, under the direction of Karen Stein and Joseph Szwaja, has met three times a week during lunch periods to discuss Shaker's progress in integration and to express mutual hopes and goals. These talks eventually expanded into two Negro-white dialogues, with an attendance of about 200 at each meeting.

The forums served the essential purpose of increasing the awareness of a problem that few people thought existed. Both teacher and student observers were surprised at the hostility expressed by Negroes and whites. People who had complacently assumed integration at Shaker was completely successful were shown the flaws existing in the present situation. The dialogues allowed students to express what was on their minds, to discuss with each other common differences and similarities, and to search for realistic solutions to the problems uncovered.

These discussions have the obvious shortcoming of involving only the interested minority of Shakerites. The majority of the students remain oblivious to the problem or see no way to help. The current forums have brought to light Negro and white feelings about race relation, and offer the student a chance to attempt to improve the situation.

The panel, Karen, Mr. Szwaja, and all other participating in the program are to be commended for taking the initiative to do something constructive about inter-racial problems at Shaker. They have planned an all-day discussion-seminar for April 22, which will emphasize solutions to the problems that came up. The entire student body should avail itself of this opportunity to participate actively in improving integration at Shaker.

Bruce Johnson

Anna Ginn

Library Innovations Serve Student and Teacher Needs

This year, Shaker's school library has continued to innovate to serve its students successfully. Many teachers are designing definite class periods each week for work in the library. The librarians have also prepared lectures to highlight library research techniques.

Students in Margaret Jones' modern history classes use the library twice a week to research and discuss books from a topical approach. Her American history students are allowed one class period a week to research term paper topics. In this way Mrs. Jones and the librarians feel that the students increase their knowledge in the subject in a less formal and "relaxed atmosphere."

Virginia Hoffman, assistant librarian, introduced research techniques in English literature for the senior English classes of Miss Marion Henderson and Miss Esther Burroughs.

The librarians are preparing the collection of 23,500 books, which is increased annually by 2,000 books, for the summer session open 7:30 to 9:30 a.m., June 19 to August 11. During this time the library will be open to the public as well as students enrolled in summer classes. Junior high students from Woodbury and Bryon will also be welcome at the library.

The library has also acquired 158 slides including ones about Williamsburg, natural history, and American painters. These slides will add to the library's existing tapes, records, and film strips which comprise the audio-visual department.

In retarded observance of April Fools' Day, we fools have created this extravaganza of warped humor for your enjoyment. We sincerely hope that our readers will keep in mind our purely humorous intentions. It is only from a deep respect for Shaker that we joke about it. (Ha, ha!)

Marcia Hubbard
(Emily Babin, not pictured)

New Officers Aim Toward Better Council Efficiency

The newly-elected Student Council officers are already at work aiming toward a successful 1967-68 school year. Future officers are Bruce Johnson, president; Anna Ginn, vice-president; Marcia Hubbard, recording secretary and Emily Babin, corresponding secretary.

Bruce, referring to his ideas for next year, said "Before any changes or innovations can take place, we must organize the new council into a highly efficient, imaginative group." At the end of April, the new homeroom representatives will be elected, and the first meeting of the new council will be at the end of May. The new and old executive boards are meeting now to help smooth the transition between the councils.

"This year's council has given us a strong foundation, upon which, with new ideas and effective committees, we can build a council that represents and fulfills the demands of each Shaker student." Prospective candidates for committee chairmen were interviewed, and the officers are hoping to consolidate some committees and add on new ones, such as the Dress Code committee. Also planned for next year are discussions and assemblies which will help unite the student body and the Student Council.

Bruce, Anna, faculty adviser Robert Mohnney, and A.F.S. students Vicki Bekeris and Geoff Fougere attended the Ohio Association of Student Councils in Elyria on April 13-16. This is an annual meeting of student council officers from all of Ohio. The main purpose of the meeting was to exchange ideas concerning all aspects of student councils. Bruce and Anna are pictured at the top left of this page and Marcia and Emily are at the bottom.

New Editors Learn Skills

The new Shakerite editors will soon begin training for next year's publications, following their appointment to the editorial board.

Dale Pollock, presently Junior Editor of the newspaper, will succeed Debby Weisberger as Editor-in-Chief. Claudia Roth will fill the junior editorship, in turn, becoming chief editor in her senior year.

Under Dale will be an editorial staff of six members. Each editor will be in charge of issues of the Shakerite on a rotating basis. New appointees are David Book, Karen Davis, Nancy Hecht, Marc Morgenstern, Joe Stern, and Barbara Stone.

Donna Brown will replace Nancy Hecht as Circulation Manager. Dan Wolpaw will become the head of the sports department, with Dan Polster assisting him as Junior Sports Editor.

Poetry Motivates Shares In Annual Swim Pageant

The Shares' Club will present their annual swim show on Friday, April 21 and Saturday, April 22, at eight o'clock in the Shaker pool. The title of this year's show is "Poetry In Motion."

The Shares Club is a selective group of girls proficient at water ballet. Their show consists of various routines in which they use their skill to convey the theme of poetry. There will be a wide variety of poems, some light and some serious ones. Each poem will be put in motion on the deck of the pool and in the water.

The Executive Council of Shares, under the direction of President Suzi Lee, plans the show. They divide the 30 club members into groups and choose the directors. Each member participates in about three routines.

The directors are responsible for choosing the music, writing the routines, making the costumes and props, drilling the members so the routine will run smoothly, and taking part in the routine. A separate committee makes the scenery.

The show consists of 15 routines. The members of each of these have practiced at least 45 minutes a week since the beginning of February. Suzi Lee will perform the only solo, and boys will take part in two routines.

One Share commented, "This year's show is more interesting than most years' because it doesn't have a conventional theme." Miss Lucille Burkett believes the swimming routines are more intricate and the skills involved in them are more difficult this year than in previous years.

The Shakerite would like to urge all Shaker students to attend the "Negro-White Dialogue" to be held tomorrow, April 22, from 10:00 until 4:00 p.m.

Students, faculty members, and any interested guests will meet in both large and small discussion groups concerned with the many problems of acquiring racial harmony.

It is only through the active communication of all races that true cooperation can ever be achieved. We feel that all responsible individuals have a duty to strive for both personal improvement as well as the betterment of society.

Splinters From the Bench

by Halwitz

ATHLETIC BRIEFS:

Second-baseman Ken Leventhal pulled off a unique double-steal during the Heights game. After the game, the Tigers' coach found both his car and wallet missing. . . . Cager Jim Robinson, a 5'9" guard, is very outspoken about the new change in basketball rules. Jim feels that he is the target of the rule prohibiting the dunk shot. . . . In the Brush track meet, Bob "Mojo" Hanna, not yet fully recovered from his amnesia attack during the Heights' football game, had a three-yard lead in the 100-yard dash until he stopped 10 yards short of the finish line. "I was waiting for my blocking to set up," explained Bob. . . . Following his outstanding performance against the Cleveland Browns, Alan "The Shift" Zimmerman has received offers from six NBA teams. . . . Swimmers Greg Ensign and John Turnbull are getting national publicity. They are pictured in next week's issue of Sports Illustrated in a "Does he, or doesn't he?" ad.

WOULD YOU BELIEVE?

The baseball team is unhappy with Coach Fred Heinlen's new practice schedule. "We don't mind having to be at practice at 3:30," explained pitcher Alan Plak, "but it doesn't even start to get light until 6:00. After defeating Bob Mohny in ping-pong (again) last week, Jerry Graham leaped over the table to shake hands with his opponent, setting a world's record for "table-hopping". . . . To complete the arrangements by which Coach Bob Rice's son became bat-boys for the Indians, Mike Paul was named equipment manager for the track team. . . . Words of wisdom from new gym teacher Buddy Young: "

ADVICE TO THE LOVELORN

Dear Miss Inform, My husband and I have been married for 50 years, but just girl friend's hands are soft and I love to hold hands but my friends are repulsed. What should I do?

Passionately, Hans Off

Sincerely, Amy Vanderbilt

Dear Ann, Please do not lead through this letter quickly. My husband is convinced he is a Viking and insists we eat all our meals in wooden mead cups and bowls. This is all very romantic, especially the bonfire and smoked hams above our heads, but I keep getting splinters in my lips. And once more, the impending horror slipped from your consciousness. Life is for the young, you sighed. Why spoil it with work?

Then began the cruel assault on your subconscious. Your dreams became permeated with horrible nightmares of being dragged to jail for not turning in a term paper. "Give me one more chance," you cried, but to no avail. Now you began worrying in earnest. . . . not working, but really worrying.

As that final Sunday night came, you rolled up your shirt sleeves and cried, "I'll never finish," you vowed. "I'll die of pneumonia between now and tomorrow morning. They'll be sorry."

Sophie: I suggest in this and other religious cases to see your clergyman for advice. He can give you the names of other young Zen Buddhists in the neighborhood. Maybe you could form a youth group.

Dear Miss Inform, I'm not allowed to date out of my religion, but there are no other Zen Buddhists in my high school. What shall I do?

Sophie McGillicuddy

Sophie: I suggest in this and other religious cases to see your clergyman for advice. He can give you the names of other young Zen Buddhists in the neighborhood. Maybe you could form a youth group.

THE SHAKERLEFT

Member of ASPCA, AZA Pen and Pencil

The Shakerite is a bi-weekly publication of The Shakerite newspaper staff at Shaker Heights High School, Shaker Heights, Ohio.

John A. Stansavage, Principal; Kenneth Caldwell, Asst. Principal; Administration; Albert Genti, Asst. Principal; Guidance; Martin Meschenberger, Asst. Principal; Student Council.

Editorial Board

Editor-in-Chief: Mr. J. J. Hamberger, Creditors: Dan Bowery, Marilyn Budzinski, Laura Judo-look, Joan Oh-look, Yellin, Picard, Smoke A. Winkler, Sports Editor: Steve Halwitz, Juvenile Editor: Sully Polack, Music Editor: Will Hoffman, Juvenile Editor: Sully Polack, Munk, Business Manager: Will Hoffman, Juvenile Editor: Sully Polack, Cartoonist: Debbie Minkin, Robert Hultedger.

Cartoonists: Debbie Minkin, Robert Hultedger, Jeff Thompson. Photographs: Tom Bond, Gary Hollander, Jon Kandel, Jeff Thompson. Editor-in-Charge of Issues: Dan Bowery.

NEW BOOKS IN THE LIBRARY

Life on the Reservation by Mr. Szwoja
I Was a Mongol Warlord by Mrs. Jones
Sex and the Civil War by Parosilly
Me and My Sun Lamp by Mr. Genti
Quotations from Stenavoge—bound in red plastic

Teachers Assign Papers Using Their Own Terms

Hangin' has been outlawed as needlessly cruel. Capital punishment is all but eliminated. The rack ended during the Middle Ages. And yet, teachers are still privileged to inflict a far worse pain than any mentioned above: term papers.

"Think about it!" Hangin' takes only a few minutes for you to die. Three or four minutes of having your face turn blue and complete, tear-stained, drenched in blood, but finished. Don't you wish they had hanged you?

But, all good things must end. And finally the great work was complete, tear-stained, drenched in blood, but finished. Don't you wish they had hanged you?

Secret Agents Tackle Doctored-Up Problems

"Two problems, which require immediate attention, were discovered this morning at the annual meeting of S.H.A.K.E.R. agents. If anyone knows how to remedy these irregularities please contact Mr. H. Body in room 132.

A teacher was explaining what a course in logic would do for a person's thinking by presenting an illustration to a puzzled student. Suppose two boys came out of a chimney—one is clean, one is dirty. Which takes a bath?"

"The dirty one," answered the student.

"Remember," said the professor, "that the clean man sees the dirty one and sees how dirty he is, and vice versa."

But, in the spring, a young man's fancy lightly turns to love. And once more, the impending horror slipped from your consciousness. Life is for the young, you sighed. Why spoil it with work?

Then began the cruel assault on your subconscious. Your dreams became permeated with horrible nightmares of being dragged to jail for not turning in a term paper. "Give me one more chance," you cried, but to no avail. Now you began worrying in earnest. . . . not working, but really worrying.

As that final Sunday night came, you rolled up your shirt sleeves and cried, "I'll never finish," you vowed. "I'll die of pneumonia between now and tomorrow morning. They'll be sorry."

same I'm a student being interviewed for the first time. "Here's the first question," began the young doctor. "What is it that wears a skirt and from whose lips comes pleasure?" The analyst answered, "Mitch Dubick playing the bagpipes in Brigadoon."

"Right!" said the new psychologist. "Now, the next question is: 'What has delightful curves, and at unexpected moments becomes uncontrollable?'" The veteran answered: "Alan Plak's pitching. "Correct," she said. "The final question: 'What do you think of when two arms are slipped around your shoulders?'" The former analyst said promptly, "Bill Reed's tackles."

jay angel's
"The Store for Young Men"
20156 VAN AKEN BLVD.
(Open Thursday Nights Till 9)

Bauer Brothers
SHOES
the shop for
PAPPAGALLO & CAPEZIO'S
20302 Chagrin Blvd.
WY 1-5666

DI BELLA'S
PIZZA
AND SPAGHETTI
12718 WOODLAND
2 Blocks from Shaker Square
FOR QUICK
CARRY OUT SERVICE
CALL SW 1-3452

For Fashion Magic . . .
MISS SHAKER SHOP
16721 Chagrin Blvd.

Russell's
Arcade Barber Shop
3 Barbers
Manicurist
Shoe Shine
Razor Hair Cutting
Men and Children
Hairstyling
751-2662
Chagrin-Lee

the shop for
PAPPAGALLO & CAPEZIO'S
20302 Chagrin Blvd.
WY 1-5666

Students Learn Fashion
at
MY DARLING DAUGHTER
Exclusive Fashions for Young
Girls and Juniors
Shaker Hts. WY 1-1690
20300 Chagrin

Hindu Tale Is Bologna

Once, long ago and far away, but not so long as to be ancient, and not so far away as to be obscure, there dwelt a Hindu. He was known far and wide as the most honest man in his village. Mainly because he was the only honest man in his village. However, there was just one problem: he wasn't the smartest man in his village by any means. Each morning, after rising from his bed of nails, he took out from his bed of nails, he took out his nail file and steel wool and made his bed. Then he marched to the village butcher to get his daily meat.

The Hindu had been going to the same store for 20 years. All this time the shifty butcher had been cheating him. Every time he wanted one pound of meat, the butcher weighed down the scale and pretended that it said three pounds. Thus, the unsuspecting (in other words, stupid) Hindu would pay for three pounds of meat and get only one.

Now the butcher had an apprentice who hadn't been around long enough to learn the "tricks of the trade," but he was learning fast under the butcher's underhanded thumb.

One day the Hindu came in for his meat. As the apprentice rushed forward to serve the swami, the butcher, determined to get his money's worth from the man (in fact, three times his money) nudged his lad's shoulder. In a conspiratorial whisper he said, "Weigh down upon the swami's liver!"

Shakerleft Proposes Plan To Boost School Spirit

We, the members of The Shakerleft staff, have come to a halt in our plodding path of mediocrity to take a peek at the world outside the shelter of Room 100. It is to our sad duty to report that even within the hallowed walls of Shaker High, we can find fault.

DESPITE OUR subtle hints cheers at athletic events and pep assemblies. Instead, the singing of popular Croatian war chants and the establishment of a more practical card section (featuring bridge and poker) will stimulate interest.

THE SHAKERLEFT a 150 plans to sponsor a school-wide contest to determine the most creative ways for the cafeteria to use last year's ground beef. First prize will be one week of free lunches. Second prize is (you guessed it) two weeks of free lunches.

We must not fail in our efforts. We will struggle and we will succeed. Yes, we will fight to the very end!

~~ The End ~~

Twiggy Packs Trunks, Visits American Cities

Twiggy, the eminent model, when she can be seen, remains a mis-tree to all who know her. She has deep roots in England but, along with her agent, has transplanted to America. According to her photographer, this change has made a shade of difference in her personality.

WHEN THE young budding model was taking her final boughs, she barked out, "Leaf me alone. I wish to branch out and flower into the apple of everyone's eye." The reporter was actually heard to say, "OAK-ay," but you needn't be such a nut about it!" Beaten to a pulp, he returned to his news-paper.

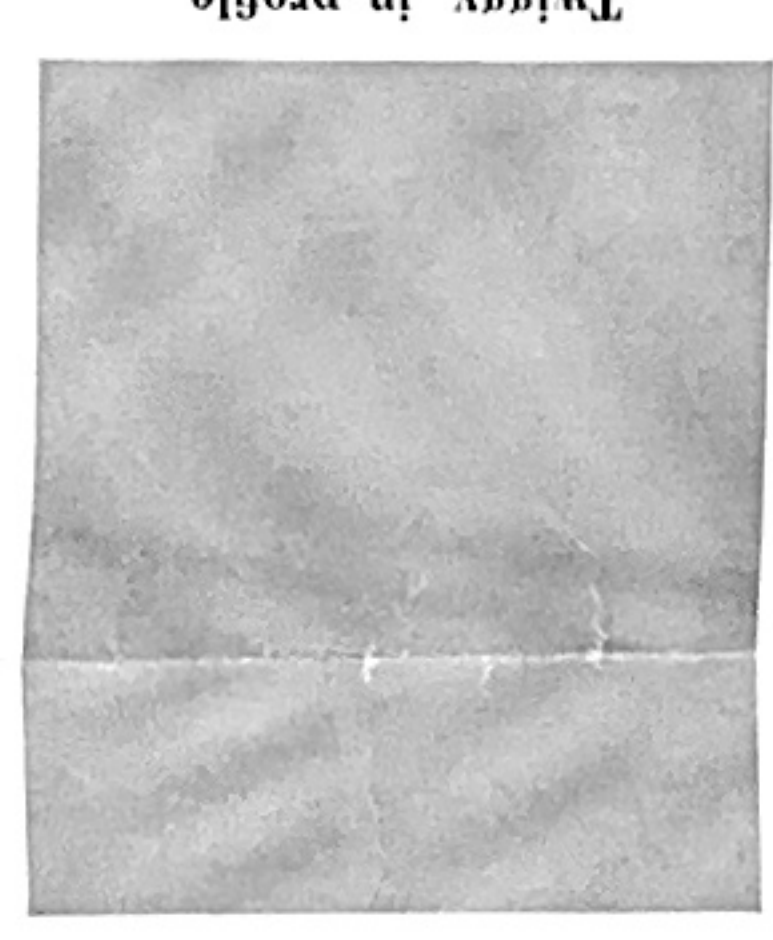

Twiggy's seedy agent is happy with his "little sapling."

Macbeth Curse Returns: Spears Marked Pupils

Out, damned grade, out I say! Here's the mark of those grades still. All my work and toil will not sweeten the report. Oh, oh! But wash my hands, grades are buried, they cannot come to haunt me.

To work, to work! There is a chance for betterment. Come, come, give me my books! What's done cannot be undone, but now, to work, to work!

Spring Fever is believed to be caused by atmospheric conditions and is at its height in the months of April, May, and early June, though some students are known to suffer from it throughout the school year. School officials are seeking government aid in combating this menace, but are treating it more like a crime than a disease. Spring Fever sufferers are not exempt from the draft and a proposed amendment to the Constitution would make Spring Fever a federal crime.

The administration is considering taking steps of its own to combat the epidemic, which affects more than 90 per cent of the student body. They have found that Spring Fever season always shows a decline in grades, an increase in class cuts, and a less efficient rate of work output to time input.

Unless modern science or Lev-el 4 Chemistry can come up with a cure for Spring Fever, school officials will have to suffer along with students. There is hope that someday medicine will be able to harness the curative power held in the last day of school.

Sudden Fever Springs Spring On Highly Seasoned Victims

The problems of LSD and marijuana are insignificant at Shaker compared to the seasonal arrival of an ancient malady that corrupts the minds of teen-agers everywhere. Many Shaker students suffer under an addiction known simply as Spring Fever.

Spring Fever is a highly contagious disease that acts as an optimum on the sufferer, sending him on fantastic mind excursions, usually in the middle of a class. Spring Fever sufferers and are often seen wandering around in a daze, or as it is commonly called, "on a trip." These trips (often down a flight of stairs) can be detrimental to a person's health (especially if he lands on his head), and school officials are perplexed with the problem.

Spring Fever is believed to be caused by atmospheric conditions and is at its height in the months of April, May, and early June, though some students are known to suffer from it throughout the school year. School officials are seeking government aid in combating this menace, but are treating it more like a crime than a disease. Spring Fever sufferers are not exempt from the draft and a proposed amendment to the Constitution would make Spring Fever a federal crime.

The administration is considering taking steps of its own to combat the epidemic, which affects more than 90 per cent of the student body. They have found that Spring Fever season always shows a decline in grades, an increase in class cuts, and a less efficient rate of work output to time input.

Unless modern science or Lev-el 4 Chemistry can come up with a cure for Spring Fever, school officials will have to suffer along with students. There is hope that someday medicine will be able to harness the curative power held in the last day of school.

My goodness gracious, me, Samuel Clemens, he gave up this name For the one of Mark Twain. He likes to tell us, most Super-assuredly, He can quit smoking Again and again. Jimmy crickety, Theodore Roosevelt Twined in to war with his Twelve pairs of specs. If he had lost them all (Super-myopically) Cuba might still be to Small Spain annexed.

THE NEW SLIM'S Up to Date Hair Styling and Cutting

Proprietor: Tony Sapomaro 16715 Chagrin 561-9774

boys and men never outgrow

Howard's

CHAGRIN BLVD. AT LEE • LO 1-4600

SHAKER GOURMET CAFETERIA

Luncheon Specials Include:
Roast pheasant under glass—you supply the pheasant, the glass
English stew—from someone stewed in the English department
Portluck—from someone who tried and missed
Caesar salad—imported from the World History department
Grosshopper wings—fresh from the Biology department

SHAKER SQUARE for 30 Years Outfitters to Shaker Men

BUNCE BROTHERS

LESHER SHOES at BASS WEJUNS 20150 VAN AKEN

Mr. Graham Contact Tough Pong Ping Pong

SHAKER GOURMET CAFETERIA

ICE CREAMS The Place CHAGRIN at LEE 921-9624

THE SHAKERLEFT

MASS TEACHER RESIGNATION

(To Student Revolt)

SHAKERLEFT Bottles Up Spirited Plot of Leaders Brewery, Dubious

tires were inflated (along with their egos).

The government interns, under the direction of Matt Holmes, had plans to take over the Shaker Heights city government on Government Intern Day and refuse to give it back. Brewery and Dubious would then form a coalition with Holmes as Intelligence Director, Bob Barberous as City Lost and Found director, and Dan Homickide as the head of the Police Department Bookstore (selling specials on d.a. levy poetry).

The two leaders had established an exile colony in Parma for all students refusing to cooperate with the rebellion. Brewery and Dubious planned to urge all students "to become involved in a wonderful project, or face the dire consequences."

THANKS TO THE SHAKERLEFT, another evil plot has been exposed. We will strive to bring you even more amusing and entertaining episodes that make life at Shaker so... ah... interesting.

News Flashes

POST BRIGADOON MILE.

STONES— Harry Beaton dies of multiple head injuries sustained during mysterious fall.

JEANNIE'S PACKIN' UP scene holds up show.

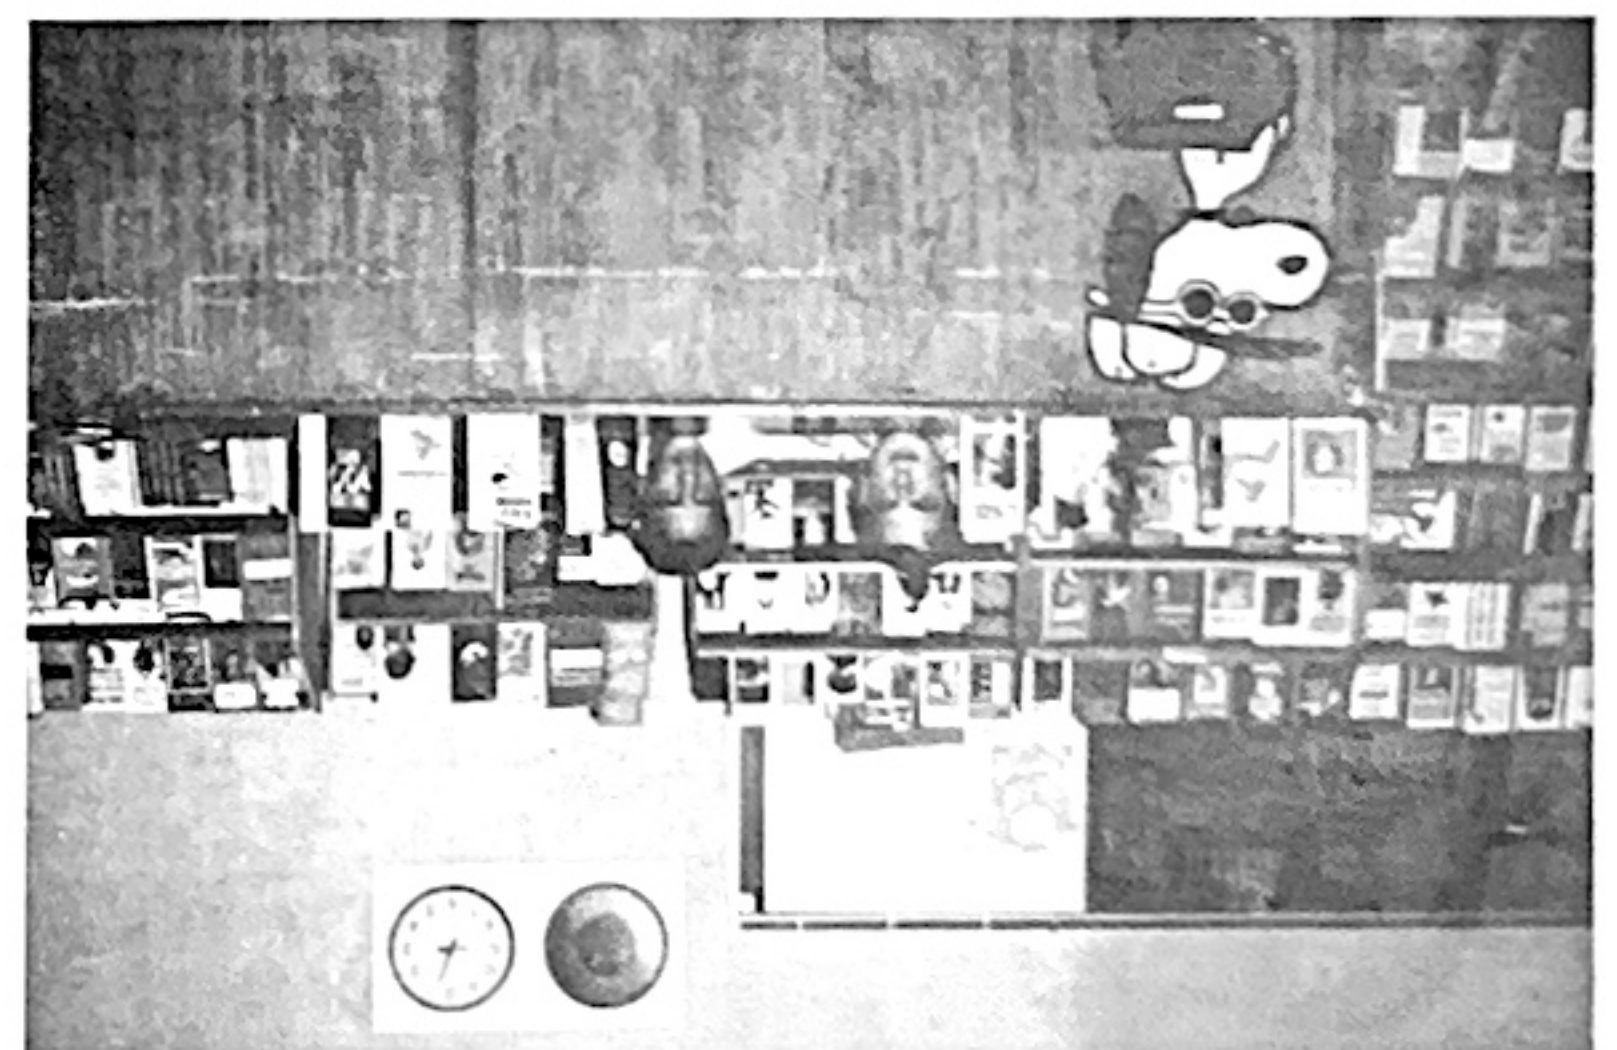

CAST PARTY FLASHES— Mitch Dubick—life of the party. What was in Mitch's flask? Debby Weisberger gets boy of the year award.

NEWSWORTHY EVENTS— Shares infest pool—April 21 and 22—poets move out. Administration loosens standards, levis and culottes seem to appear.

SCANDAL— Surprise! All senior finals scheduled for the day of the prom. Shaker's always kind to its graduates.

Plans for the Junior Prom are still up in the air!

Shakerite staff stumped on humor article?

Student revolution leaders Hic Brewery and Mitch Dubious are cut down to size in their underground bookstore headquarters.

Sugared Booklets Spice Up Campus

Most of the junior class are frantically searching through college catalogues for the one institution that has everything they expect. Increasing numbers are finding that while one college may be as different from another as Harvard is from the Cleveland School of Welding, the difference is rarely apparent in the literature sent to applicants.

Every catalogue seems to start with a view of the oldest building on campus, photographed in spring when the trees surrounding the edifice are in full bloom. Personal visits to college campuses often reveal that no one has been inside these old buildings for years for fear of falling beams, or that the college trustees, with an eye to a modern-looking educational plant in the future, have expanded the college as far away as possible from the grassy knoll on which the old mansion is situated. Nevertheless, as any catalogue will tell you, "Old Heritage Hall is the center of activities on our busy campus."

The president's message always appears near the beginning of the catalogue. Under a portrait of the president's smiling, benign face, the applicant is told of the fine traditions of the college. The close relationship between students and faculty is stressed here, though a student will be taught only by graduate students for his first three years. The president concludes by hoping that you will make college "Y" your cultural oasis for the next four years. Unfortunately, the college president and director of admissions do not always see eye to eye on this matter.

The catalogue closes with a section describing in its own ambitious style, the many fascinating courses of study made available to knowledge-hungry students. For example, "Radish Husbandry 417, an involved study of the influence that the American radish has had on cultural lag in the 20th century."

See no evil.

Hear no evil.

Case #2: (gazing intently at the pools of blood on the floor) Um, we were dissecting frogs in biology and unfortunately I had warts.

Nurse: Oh, That's too bad. Here, try an aspirin.

Case #3: stumbles in, collapses on the floor, then dizzily gets up on his hands and knees. He moans and tries to nurse his broken leg.

Nurse: Hey! Where's your pink slip?

Shaker's nurse lives in a cheerful atmosphere, with pictures of ancient doctors and their weapons gazing from their perch on the walls of the clinic. The nurse is constantly faced with the task of treating remarkably varied mishaps calmly and confidently.

A day in the clinic might go like this:

Case #1: walks in winching, with her hand over her eye.

Nurse: What's the matter — a cinder embedded in your eye?

Case #1: No, I'm rather clumsy when it comes to using mascara. Boy, does it sting!

Nurse: I see. Here's an aspirin.

Case #2: enters, closely examining his bright red hand.

Nurse: Beautiful job. How'd it happen?

THE MOVEMENT has been to publish propaganda leaflets to use their extensive equipment the Printing Club who planned to administer the members of the members of the master-ing and abetting the office? Aid.

OFFICE ASSISTANTS played a key part in opening the door to administration secrets. After memorizing selections from G.M. Chrysler's group conference lectures (taken directly from Mad magazines), they craftily translated the classified information into code and distributed them to student leaders via absentee lists. Only those possessing the Special Rice Krispies Super Intertplanetary Batman Decoder Ring (free for just 271 boxtops and the mortgage on your parents' home) can snap, crackle and pop the mysterious code.

THROUGH OUR spies in the school administration, forces plan to take over the extensive plot, by which student methods, we have unearthed an search and other underhanded expose. Through diligent research and other underhanded exposure, we have unearthed an search and other underhanded exposure. Through diligent research and other underhanded exposure, we have unearthed an search and other underhanded exposure.

Plot of Leaders Brewery, Dubious

SHAKERLEFT Bottles Up Spirited

MASS TEACHER RESIGNATION

Shaker Heights Industrial School